Cultural Center Goals

1. How well did you meet your goals and objectives outlined in your Management and Programming Plan? What challenges did you face and how will you address these issues in the future? Please indicate your measurements of success.
 - a. Goal 1: Increase and diversify funding – please see section 3
 - b. Goal 2: Grow Dare to Dream ARTS Youth Enrichment program (D2D)
 - i. The D2D program has been extremely successful in increasing participation. Overall participation in classes grew to over 3,500 students in the various classes, an increase of 95% over the previous year. Unduplicated students grew from 300 in the summer of 2011 to about 650 during summer 2012, and from 175 to over 300 during the academic year.
 - ii. We have continued to grow our base of expert working artist teachers, have added ceramics, DJ, modern dance and mixed media as new art forms, and continued collaborating with SFAI City Studio Program, Brushfire Painting Workshops and SF Camerawork First Exposures. We employed 20 working artists this fiscal year, up from 13 in 2010–2011. The level of expertise continues to be outstanding – all teachers are accomplished artists in their discipline.
 - iii. We have increased the number of participating preschool groups to 11 from 5 different preschools, compared to 5 groups from 2 preschools in 2010-2011. We attribute the growth to the excellence of our program and word of mouth. Participating teachers referred many of our new preschool groups. Direct contact with site supervisors and principals also resulted in the participation of additional groups from participating schools or daycare centers.
 - iv. We dealt with extreme challenges due to violence in the street and moved classes into two partner schools that were not willing to let the children walk to the BVOH anymore. We continued to serve other groups at the BVOH.
 - v. We have initiated discussions about deeper integration of our programs with the schools' identified goals with the principal of Carver Elementary School and applied for grant funding to deepen planning from the California Arts Council.
 - vi. We were able to purchase additional musical instruments with a grant from the Bogart Foundation, and now have enough for an entire class. Unfortunately we were only able to make limited use of them, because most music classes had to be taught at school sites and transporting the instruments was not feasible.
 - vii. Many children participated in two or three sessions of the same art form throughout the year, gaining more advanced skills.
 - viii. Our garden to table program is extremely popular, especially with the preschools. Teachers have stated that they have noticed a difference in the children's willingness to try new foods in their own lunch program. We observe that children become increasingly open-minded about trying new foods, learn the names of new foods and enjoy new foods, as our teacher makes it fun and exciting for them to experiment. We provided our cooking instructor with an opportunity for professional development and sent her to a semester-long class on child nutrition at City College. The additional training resulted in a more focused curriculum and sense of progress in the children's learning.
 - ix. The body-mind connection was explored primarily in our popular yoga classes for preschool and elementary children. Other teachers in classes that teach movement also stressed the importance of controlling the body in ways that yield choreographed movement and used these accomplishments to build self-esteem.
 - x. Acquisition of more computers took a little longer than we had hoped and did not happen in 2010-2011. However, we have since received commitments from Bay Area Video Coalition and Interactive Sciences, Inc. to provide additional computing equipment and are also hoping for more computers from DTIS.

Despite this problem, we were able to provide digital photography classes to children as young as 3rd grade, using the computers we have as well as laptops brought in by First Exposures during summer. Due to the fact that the older elementary students had to be taught at their schools, the lack of more computers really had very little effect.

- xi. A new principal at our partner school Carver, who provided their own professional development in “restorative justice,” addressed the need for changes around discipline issues. Therefore, there was no need for us to provide it. Our own teachers are quite good at handling the youth; the problem arose mostly from a clash of different methods.
 - xii. Our parent/toddler classes enjoyed only moderate success, similar to the prior year. We will step up our outreach in the fall.
 - xiii. Counseling for children did not happen. Since our school age programs took place mostly at the schools sites, the situation was not conducive for this.
 - xiv. To measure success other than by number of students and schools participating we asked our teachers to provide a written curriculum with specific learning goals. We developed a questionnaire that was given to the teachers bringing the children at the end of the winter session. We were able to get their perspective on what the children learned and address suggestions and criticisms they communicated to make improvements for the spring session.
- c. Goal 3: Improve quantity and quality of events, attract larger audiences
- i. Quantity of events at the BVOH grew from 57 in 2011 to over 132 this year. The quality was up as well, including for the first time a well-known jazz artist (Marcus Shelby), an R&B revue by TopHat Productions, Junior Toots and the very popular HELP Portrait event that provided free family portraits instead of toys.
 - ii. Many satisfied renters filled out our newly implemented rental survey and told us how happy they were with their events.
 - iii. The main challenge to increased audiences is the perception of an unsafe environment, which we are actively combatting with efforts to improve the environment by programming the outsides and working with SFPD to provide added security.
 - iv. We attend many community meetings and collaborate extensively with other organizations. Our community presence has resulted in increased event attendance as well as the Habitat for Humanity renovation project. We also established new partnerships with our neighbors Old Skool Café and Radio Africa, with whom we exchange services.
 - v. We are a key stakeholder in the effort to improve Mendell Plaza and organized a concert series of 12 events in the plaza with financial support by the Bayview Merchants Association and the OEWD. As the grant funds were almost exclusively used to compensate artists and pay for direct event needs such as sound and stage, this series large depended on volunteer efforts by the BVOH ED along with several community volunteers.
 - vi. Challenges include members of the community who do not feel included in or respected by our activities. We are trying to talk to and work with individual members of this constituency, listen to their concerns and attempt to include them as much as possible.
2. How well did you attract attendees to your activities?
- a. Our afterschool Dare to Dream ARTS youth enrichment program this past academic year was a run-away success. We have increased participation from 175 to over 300 during the academic year, and to a record 650 this summer from last year’s 300. Word continues to travel and each session more teachers wanted to bring their students to classes.

- b. Every week 35 dancers typically attend the popular year-round Monday Night Line Dance lessons. Between 75-125 people attend the monthly Friday Night Jive, which features our line dance teacher and line dance music performed by a DJ.
 - c. Community events such as Sunday Streets, the Help Portrait Holiday event, BMAGIC backpack give-away and similar activities always draw large crowds. Performance events had good attendance, but never sold out. Safety concerns are a major obstacle. Nevertheless, overall attendance at events increased from just over 10,000 to 16,170, a 55% increase.
 - d. While we devote significant time to keep our website updated, it appears to be used mostly by potential funders, but not much by people trying to attend our events. Facebook fans and Twitter followers are increasing slowly. Postcard distribution takes great effort, and its success is limited. It appears that word-of-mouth and outreaching through our partners is the most effective method. It works best when our events align with partners' preferences/goals.
 - e. We did attend a number of meetings with the SF Travel Association and were listed in their brochures. However, there was no visible success resulting from this partnership. Tourists are systematically discouraged from visiting the Bayview, and we did not find any resonance to our outreach attempts. No tour operators appeared to be interested in conducting Bayview tours. This might be more successful a year or two from now.
 - f. Outreach to outside of Bayview and inside Bayview has not been significantly different, and the resulting attendance at events and programs is related more to the event itself, whether people are interested, than the amount or type of outreach done. Ticket sales are the result of hard work calling and otherwise individually contacting people. The best-attended events are those that are part of a larger citywide project such as Sunday Streets, or where something valuable is given away, such as school backpacks. Then word-of-mouth really works.
3. Refer to your fundraising plan and assess your success and barriers
- a. Most aspects of the fundraising plan were executed successfully.
 - i. Earned income was increased through additional rental revenues, collection of program participation fees for previously free classes and ticket sales for performances. We increased earned income about 50% over last year and exceeded budget expectations by 18%.
 - ii. Financial audit was completed early and was used with grant applications.
 - iii. We hired a fundraising professional to not only develop our grant language, but also to mentor staff on all aspects of fundraising.
 - iv. Individual giving has increased significantly by almost 700% over last year and is 200% the budgeted amount for this year.
 - v. We have not been successful at expanding the board – this will be the focus in 2012-2013.
 - vi. Foundation giving target was not reached, but expected government contributions were exceeded. However, we received two additional foundation grants in late June, and income was deferred to 2012-2013 (unable to spend money and realize grant goals in short timeframe). Major grants received from San Francisco Foundation and OEWD.
4. List the Community Support Board meetings that have been held in 2011-2012. Include the date, location, number of attendees, and outreach efforts. Please attach the minutes of those meetings.
- a. We had intended to add specific community support board meetings outside of the Bayview Opera House to engage different constituencies. We held one such meeting at Carver Elementary School, which did serve the purpose to deepen our relationship with Carver parents and staff; however, we did not advertise this meeting to the general public, and so it will not be counted here. We also held two other outreach meetings in June – one with the Bayview Merchants Association (BMA) and one with the Concerned Citizen's Committee. The BMA meeting is counted as meeting #6.

- b. BVOH Board Meetings are generally open to the public and advertised as such on our website all year. In general, we call certain interested individuals who do not use email. The following board meetings had members of the public present and contributing:
 - i. 9/7/2011
 - ii. 12/7/2011
 - iii. 2/1/2012
 - iv. 4/6/2012 Public Input
 - v. Bayview Merchants Association Input Meeting 6/26/12
 - vi. We are counting one Center Director's Meeting as a Support Board Meeting: 11/30/2011

6. Please list all programs held off-site and note why there were not held at a City-owned Cultural Center
- a. The BVOH has provided arts education afterschool to Bayview students since the fall of 2010. Their after-school teachers bring the students to the BVOH as a group. After the September shooting of a 5-year-old girl from Charles Drew Elementary School near the BVOH, Charles Drew and Carver School administrators no longer felt comfortable having the children walk to the BVOH. In order not to lose the partnerships and to continue serving the kids the only solution was to send our teachers into the school sites to teach. We have made it clear to the schools that this is a temporary accommodation.
 - b. The BVOH collaborated with the Bayview Merchants Association and the Mayor’s Office of Workforce and Economic Development to put on a concert series in Mendell Plaza for the explicit purpose of creating a more positive ambience and presence in the plaza.

Please refer to your MPP and list other ways your organization served the community including items like G3a (online/radio/television programs), G7a (publications), G12 (world premieres), G13 (national premieres), G14 (local premieres), and G15 (works commissioned). If projects listed in your MPP were not achieved, let us know why.

The BVOH has provided free or low cost space to many community meetings, stakeholder meetings, community events for various seasonal holidays and other celebrations.

The BVOH provided affordable space rentals or free use of space and related services to organizations and community members on 66 occasions.

The BVOH participated in over 100 collaborations with other organizations and individuals to produce events open to the community.

The BVOH has provided 20 working artists with the opportunity for consistent gainful employment in the community arts education field over the course of the year.

Mary Booker has not yet produced her play "A Little Piece of God;" she still hopes to produce it in the future.

Facility

7. Describe the facility repair, maintenance, or capital improvement projects that your organization accomplished in 2011-12.
 - a. Habitat for Humanity Greater San Francisco selected the BVOH as their pilot project for their new Neighborhood Revitalization Initiative. Habitat volunteers
 - i. Painted the entire auditorium, the classroom and some hallways
 - ii. Painted the exterior fence
 - iii. Built 8 new 4X4 redwood planter boxes for the BVOH garden project
 - b. Hands-On Bay Area brought in Visa volunteers to plant flower beds in the parking lot

Personnel

8. Attach an organizational chart showing all staff positions and the time committed to that position. If a member of the staff serves in more than one role in the organization, show the person in each position and the amount of time dedicated to each position. Include contractors and volunteers to reflect the breadth of your community

Organizational Chart – see attached

Budget and Revenue Target

9. Complete the following income and expense statement for FY12 following the definitions described by the CCDP. Budget notes are required for the areas with an asterisk and for significant changes from the previous year (increase or decrease by 50 percent).

Public Comment
No member from the public was present at this time.

Presentation by David Burnett, Liaison, Habitat for Humanity
Mr. Burnett gave an overview about SF Habitat for Humanities Neighborhood Revitalization Initiative. This is a pilot program that they want to run in the Bayview and work closely and partner with the Bayview Opera House. This partnership would include assisting BVOH with the improvement and revitalization of the physical structure. In addition, the Initiative would provide service to help with residential repairs, community facility repair, and park beatifications. Will also provide literacy training for potential home buyers.

Changar asked about the specific plans for the Bayview Opera House. David Burnett explained that Habitat is in the process of meeting with head of construction to discuss the tasks needed to help with the revitalization of the building and surrounding space. He is working with Barbara to create a "wish list" of sorts, to set priorities and then to create a work plan. Some examples that were mentioned in the initial conversation were, chicken coop improvements, painting open space, building assessments, etc.

Public Comment

Upon the arrival of a member from the public, President Joseph called for public comment. Doug Turner, Project 20 participant praised the efforts of Barbara and Rebecca for the work they have been doing with the BVOH. He added that they have made his community service a worthwhile experience, so much so that he worked double his required number of hours.

After public comment president Joseph moved to remove Vice-President Calloway from the Board of Directors due to a substantial number of BVOH

BVOH Board Meeting Minutes
Wed, December 7, 2011
Call to Order 7:10 PM

Members Present: Changar, Cohen (7:30 PM), Ellington, Grigg III, Joseph, Kennedy, Sockwell

Excused: Paris

Staff Present: Ockel

Approval of the Agenda and Minutes -

Ellington motioned with a second from Cohen. Changar looked to get more information about the process of submitting agenda items. Joseph suggested that any items be sent to both the President and Secretary before each meeting and he would determine if they fit within the scope of any meeting.

Cohen moved to approve the minutes from September's board meeting with a second from Bro. Sockwell

Managing Directors Report -

Some of the highlights in the report included information pertaining to SFAC renovation and improvement projects. In addition, the board was updated on the Habitat for Humanity partnership - the organization will provide assistance to paint the exterior fence and classroom. BVOH received the Governor's Award for Historic Preservation on November 17, 2011. The report gave an overview of the City Audit process as well as fundraising and foundation visit updates. Lastly, the report included a programming update. No discussion followed.

Public Comment -

Antonio Mims – Identified himself as community resident who filed with the ethic commission to run for Mayor. He was interested to know the history of the board of directors. He asked about outreach and how community can get involved with programming.

Diane Wesley-Smith - Identified herself as the first director of the Bayview Opera House and requested that it be mentioned. She was there to support her fellow community members.

Cati Hawkins-Okaorie - Identified herself as long time resident of Bayview. She had questions about the managing director and reasons behind there not being a Kwanzaa Celebration taking place at the BVOH or an African Dance class. She was also concerned about the painting in the classroom that in her opinion depicted a white man looking over black men and women.

Mary Booker - from Infinity production (IP) and community member wanted more information about when board meetings occur and wanted an update on the status of the MOU between IP and BVOH.

After public comment the meeting moved to closed session.

BVOH Board Meeting Minutes
Wednesday, February 1, 2012 7:20PM

Members Present: Cohen, Grigg, Ellington, Kennedy, Sockwell

Members Absent: Joseph, Changar

Staff Present: Ockel, Gallegos, Tabron

Guest Speaker: Judy Nemzoff, SFAC

Meeting was called to order at 7:20PM

Approval of the Agenda

Ellington called the meeting to order and immediately opened the floor up for Public Comment due to persons waiting to speak despite officially a CLOSED session.

Public Comment:

Individuals that spoke (in order of appearance): Walter Turner, Barbara Spears, Reverend Riley, Kitty Morgan, Dorris Vincent and Mary Lee Booker. The major theme expressed by these speakers is that the Bayview Opera House Ruth Williams Memorial Theatre was built for the community and the community wants it "used for the community." The SFCO Family Concert scheduled on Sunday, February 5, and at the beginning of Black History Month was seen by this group as being culturally insensitive. Individuals spoke about respecting each other, respecting the cultural heritage of African Americans, the need to work together, and the need for common goals. SFAC Guest speaker, Judy Nemzoff, commented: Building needs to serve the community and that she will work with the ED to discuss the issues.

Issue to be addressed or retort to Public Comment:

- Copy of ED applications requested. Was IMD able to interview ED applicants?
- Access to Bylaws requested, should they be posted on website?

Executive Director Report Ockel briefly explained and handed out.

Guest Speaker Judy Nemzoff - SFAC Presentation

Judy Nemzoff gave brief overview of the renovation plans that are slated to take place during the next fiscal year. Target schedule of early-April for design review, late-April for community meeting, followed by an official groundbreaking ceremony in September, with subsequent closure from September through February 2013 was conveyed. Deborah Frieden of Cultural Project Planning was hired as the Consultant for this project based on her vast experience and knowledge of historic buildings and community, people, families, and culture. Nemzoff relayed that the SFAC is embarking on a significant $1.2M renovation project that not only addresses the replacement of the South Wall, mold in dressing rooms, ADA compliance issues, such as Newcomb façade entrance and restrooms, but will also include "artsy" design elements such as new fence which will be more open and inclusive and also greening plans that work to marry with the Mendel Plaza and Third Street beautification and programming plans. She mentioned that TOM ELIOT FISCH, "preservation people," and Walter Hood, Hood Design, former head of Landscape Architecture at UCB, are two of the big firms hired for the BVOH Design Project. All plans will work to keep the integrity of the 1888 design intact. Nemzoff mentioned optional sites, such as Joe Lee Rec Center or nearby SFUSD sites as potential locations during BVOH's closure. She added there is not a lot of time for community buy-in, since the initial design plans were scrapped, and that the projected April Community Meeting will be the opportunity for the community to learn about THE design plan.

Meeting was adjourned at 9:30PM

Board Meeting Public Input 4/4/12

Mary Booker: Concerned about a place to voice their concerns. Has been asking for MOU for over one year, either say no or yes. Wants to talk about MOU until after the 28th. Also are revising the MOU from what they have sent.

Jackie said she was under impression there was a meeting already for a temporary arrangement. GL. had said everything was moving along fine. No issue at this point.

Jo Elias-Jackson:

Armando Luna: Yoga instructor, has noticed positive changes in neighborhood and at BVOH in last 13 years that he has lived here.

Errol Hall: Impressed with facility, aesthetics have improved a lot, the art exhibits create a nice feeling around here. Neighborhood is changing and this is the last chance to hold on to the Opera House as a facility for youth.

Community Input Meeting in Conjunction with Bayview Merchants Association (BMA) Meeting

The Bayview Opera House has recently joined the BMA and hosted a community input meeting to solicit input from merchants. 18 people attended the meeting.

Director Barbara Ockel gave an overview of the BVOH's programs and asked for feedback about things merchants would like the BVOH to do. Not many people chose to make comments.

- Merchants generally view BVOH favorably, and hope that increased activity will bring more business to the Bayview.
- One person wanted to see the BVOH actively support merchants by collaborating with restaurants.
- Most merchants were already familiar with the BVOH, but a few had not been here and commented on its beauty.
