

SFAC Main Gallery

Reopening exhibition

November 18, 2021 – March 12, 2022

Title TBD

This exhibition explores place and how it shapes individuals and communities. The artists in this exhibition use San Francisco as a jumping off point to unearth histories about themselves, their families, and the larger community. The works touch on the history of land use in San Francisco, how neighborhoods are defined and how they have shifted over time, how a city is planned and developed by the populations that live in it, and how, in turn, a city can shape and develop its citizens.
