RE: June 5, 2018 Election Observations

Below are some comments and observations about the June 5, 2018 election, organized by category. I was an inspector at my home precinct.

I. Voter Information Pamphlet

Elections Commission not mentioned. At the last Elections Commission meeting, Mr. Steven Hill (one of the authors of the Charter amendment that established the Elections Commission) made a remark during his public comment to the effect that “most members of the public don’t even know that the Elections Commission exists.” This prompted me to look back at some old Voter Information Pamphlets and to attach excerpts of them to this document, along with the VIP for the June 2018 election:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Election</th>
<th>Section about Commission?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>November 2002</td>
<td>yes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December 2002</td>
<td>yes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November 2003</td>
<td>yes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>March 2004</td>
<td>yes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November 2004</td>
<td>no</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>...</td>
<td>no?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 2018</td>
<td>no</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The “yes” / “no” in the right column above indicates whether the VIP for that election included a section letting the public know about the Elections Commission. It seems that VIP’s included information about the Commission up until November 2004, at which point it stopped. The excerpted pages I've attached show what these pages looked like for each listed case.

II. Vote-by-mail ballots

1. VBM voters receiving more than one ballot. In certain cases, VBM voters receive more than one VBM ballot. An example is a VBM voter that updates their address after receiving their first ballot (the case that was discussed at our May Commission meeting). In these cases, it could help to include a note explaining that the Department knows the voter received two ballots, and telling the voter what they should do with their multiple ballots (e.g. which to cast, whether it matters, and what to do with the extras). Currently, receiving more than one ballot can be seen as a mistake on the part of the Department of Elections, and voters might not know which ballot to cast and what to do with the other one.

III. Poll Worker Manual

1. Highlighting changes / new procedures. In the Poll Worker Manual, it seems like it would be good to include a section listing the new practices since the last election. This will help draw attention to new practices, so that experienced poll workers will be less likely to overlook them. This year, new practices included at least — (1) the “Not Listed in the Roster” sign, (2) the “Ballot Information” sign on the orange cone, and (3) modifications to the poll-worker script to instruct voters.

2. “Set-Up Election Table” Diagram. On page 20, there is a diagram of how the election table should be set up. However, the picture is “backwards” if the polling place requires voters to come in from the direction opposite that assumed by the picture (e.g. “from the left” instead of “from the right”). This requires the clerks to mentally imagine a “mirror image” of the picture when setting up the table, which I noticed was confusing for them. It would help if the manual could include two versions of the diagram – one for each direction – along with a picture of an arrow showing which voter direction the picture should be used for. This way clerks could choose which of the two diagrams they should use as opposed to setting it up the wrong way and having to fix it (or maybe never noticing the issue in the first place and/or being confused as to why the flow of voters is not working).

   In addition, I also think it would be easier if the picture was reversed so that it would match what the poll-worker would see when sitting behind the table, because that is the perspective of the poll-worker throughout the day, and it will be easier to double-check that the table matches the picture throughout the day, as that is where they will be sitting. Currently, the picture shows the set-up of the table from the perspective of the voter.

3. Ranked choice voting – glossary. “Ranked choice voting” isn’t in the glossary, even though it’s an important concept that’s new to many pollworkers (e.g. high-school pollworkers).

4. Readable copy of “Not Listed in the Roster” Sign. It would help for understanding if a copy of the “Not Listed in the Roster” Sign could be included in the poll-worker manual itself. Currently, there is only a tiny picture of the sign (on page 45) that isn’t really readable.

5. Ranked choice voting – Ballot Clerk script. The Ballot Clerk's script begins with the words, "The ballot contains 4 cards and includes a ranked-choice contest; please check both sides of the cards for contests." This is great to bring to voters' attentions. However, in my precinct (in District 8), this wasn't quite correct as there were two ranked-choice contests on the ballot.

IV. Pollworker Training
1. Ranked choice voting – video. It was great that a short introductory video on ranked-choice voting was played at the poll-worker training (about 1 min. 30 seconds long). However, it would help if the video also mentioned why San Francisco uses ranked-choice voting (namely since San Francisco voters passed a Charter amendment in 2002 called Proposition A).

V. Polling place

1. Large polling place / windy conditions. Every election the polling place I've worked at has had an issue with the wind constantly blowing over the large plastic polling place sign. It would be good if there was a convenient way to keep the sign stable. In the past, there hasn’t been an easy way to tape the sign to something because it's outside, as it is normally leaning up against a raised landscaping area. Also, tape doesn't adhere well to concrete. Something heavy would help, and a way to secure the sign to it. It was hard to find something in the homeowner's garage that was workable.

2. Porta Potty Locked. At my polling place, the Porta Potty was locked with a plastic tie, and there wasn't anything to break the tie with. I had to bother the homeowner for a utility knife.

3. 100 ft. rope missing. There were a number of campaigners at my precinct who tried to stay at the edge of the 100 foot boundary, and I had to keep reminding them to keep their distance. It would have been good to have the 100 foot rope that was available in previous elections. I couldn't find it among my supplies. My FED also couldn't seem to find one. Thus, I had to estimate by pacing, but it would have been better to have a more accurate way of measuring.

4. Facsimile ballot language not easy to know. The facsimile ballots don’t say on the cover what language they are written in. For people that don't know the language under question, this makes it hard to tell if the ballot is e.g. Chinese, Vietnamese, Korean, or Filipino.

VI. Election Procedures

1. Undervoting and ballot secrecy. One voter was concerned by the fact that the Insight machine's “Undervoted” message seems to sacrifice the secrecy of their ballot. When the machine delivers that message, the poll worker then knows how the voter voted. It wasn't easy to provide an answer to the voter as to how they could cast a ballot with an undervote without losing the secrecy of their ballot. Even the voter hotline didn't have a good answer on hand.

2. Electioneering vs. knocking on doors. One person seemed to be doing electioneering by knocking on doors within 100 feet and talking to voters (apparently as part of a campaign's get-out-the-vote effort). I told the person they weren't allowed to be campaigning within 100 feet, but the person said there was an exception for knocking on the doors of known supporters. The Election Center confirmed this exception, but it would have been good to know this in advance.

VII. Election Results
Time to Determine RCV Winner. The media quoted Director Arntz as saying it could take five days before RCV results are known. For example, from a May 30 SF Weekly story--

“Department of Elections Director John Arntz told KQED it could be as many as five days after the June 5 primary before a winner of the ranked-choice voting contest is known.”

However, with the way this is phrased, it makes it seem like RCV takes 5 days to process, when in fact round-by-round results are known on election night. I think it would be better to tell the media that 1) RCV contests take the same amount of time as other contests to know the results for, and 2) whether it takes more days to know the winner depends on how close the race is and not on whether it is RCV.

In the end, saying 5 days wasn't right because the Mayor's race was so close. Even after five days the winner wasn't known. In contrast, the winner of the D8 Supervisor race was clear on election night.

A phrasing like I suggested above would encompass any amount of time from the winner being known on election night to taking up until the end of counting all ballots. Alternatively, the Director could give the media an idea of what percentage of ballots are expected to be tabulated after 5 days, etc, and let the media decide for themselves how close to knowing it will be.

VIII. RCV Ballot Instructions

In February 2015, I submitted a memo to the Director and to the Elections Commission suggesting that the RCV ballot instructions be improved. The reason is that some voters do not understand why ranking more candidates can help them. That memo is still valid today because the ballot instructions haven't changed since then. Perhaps when the Department gets new equipment would be a good time to revisit the language for the instructions and educational materials.

Currently, San Francisco's RCV materials seem limited mainly to the mechanics of filling out a ballot. However, this doesn't necessarily help voters understand how the rankings are used.

Consequently, even after reading some of these materials, voters could come to the incorrect conclusion for example that RCV is a “weighted” or “points-based” system (e.g. three points for first choice, two points for second choice, and one point for third choice).

Misunderstandings like this can cause voters to—

1. Leave the second or third choice blank (e.g. bullet voting), incorrectly thinking that this is better for their first choice, or
2. Mark the same candidate for all three choices, incorrectly thinking this will help their first choice even more.
In the June election, there were still many voters doing one of the two things above. Behaviors like the above, while good-intentioned, may be counter-productive to the voter. The voter may lose out on the chance to have a say in a later round of the RCV tabulation. Improved instructions or understanding could help voters cast a more effective vote.

Here is possible wording that could help voters understand better how to cast a more effective vote:

- Ranking a second choice cannot hurt your first choice, and ranking a third choice cannot hurt your first two choices. Your ballot will count towards a later choice only if your earlier choices are eliminated.

And possibly also—

- You maximize the power of your vote by using all three of your rankings.

The City of Minneapolis, MN uses wording like the above in its RCV brochure. Minneapolis started using RCV in November 2009. The “How to Vote with a Ranked Choice Ballot” section of their brochure reads [A4]:

1. Select your preferred candidate and fill in the oval next to the candidate’s name in the 1st choice column.
2. Indicate your 2nd choice. Your ballot will count for this candidate if (and only if) your 1st choice loses. It doesn’t help your 1st choice candidate to rank him or her more than once or to not rank anyone else.
3. Rank a 3rd choice if you have one. Your ballot will count for this candidate only if your 1st and 2nd choices lose.

At least one piece of San Francisco RCV literature has language similar to this. However, the piece appears to be older (possibly predating San Francisco’s first RCV election in November 2004) and does not seem to accompany the main election materials. This is one of the RCV Trifold brochures. Under the “Marking the Ranked-Choice Ballot” section, it says—

- Keep In Mind: Your second choice will be counted only if your first-choice candidate has been eliminated. Your third choice will be counted only if both your first-choice and second-choice candidates have been eliminated.

- If you select the same candidate in more than one column, your vote for that candidate will count ONLY ONCE.

The Ranked Choice Voting Resource Center is another resource that could have suggestions for better language.
Dear Voter:

The Department of Elections encourages all voters to review the location of their polling places. Even more than usual, voters may discover that their voting location changed for this Consolidated General Election. The Department needed to adjust the boundary lines for a large number of precincts in response to adjustments made to the supervisory district lines.

To confirm your voting location, look on the back page of this voter guide. You will find the address and precinct number for your polling place. If you have any questions, you can call the Department of Elections' voter information phone bank at 554-4375 and one of our staff will tell you the location of your polling place.

Early voting is available at the Department of Elections in the basement of City Hall beginning Monday, October 7th from 8:00am-5:00pm, Monday through Friday. Early voting is also available on the following weekends: October 26th & 27th and November 2nd & 3rd, from 10:00am-4:00pm.

Respectfully,

John Arntz

Dear San Francisco Voter:

Your Voter Information Pamphlet contains the following helpful information for the November 4 Consolidated Municipal Election including:

The Department of Elections encourages you to review the back cover of this pamphlet for the correct address of your polling place, as some polling place locations have changed since the last election. The address of your polling place can also be found on the Department’s website at www.sfgov.org/elections, under "polling place lookup." If you have any questions about the location of your polling place, you can call the Department’s voter information phone bank at (415) 554-4375.

The Department of Elections would also like to remind all voters about two early voting options for the November 4 Election. First, any voter may request an absentee ballot by filling out the absentee ballot application on the back cover of this pamphlet. The completed application must be received by the Department no later than 5:00 p.m. on October 28. Dear San Francisco Voter:

For the March 2, 2004 Consolidated Primary Election, the Department of Elections is providing all voters with a voter information pamphlet that contains sample ballots for each of the qualified political parties: American Independent, Democrat, Green, Libertarian, Natural Law, Peace and Freedom, and Republican. In the past, each voter received a pamphlet that contained the sample ballot of the voter's political party only.

If, when you registered to vote, you stated an affiliation with a political party, you must vote the ballot of that party. If, instead, you declined to state a party affiliation, you may vote the ballot of any of the three political parties -- American Independent, Democrat, and Republican -- that allow unaffiliated voters to participate in their primaries. Please check the back cover of this voter information pamphlet to confirm your party registration.

If you declined to state a party affiliation and you wish to request an absentee ballot, you can indicate which party ballot you would like to receive on the absentee ballot application located on the back cover of this voter information pamphlet. If you are a voter who declined to state a party affiliation and you intend to vote at the polls on election day, you can indicate your party choice to a poll worker.

All voters, regardless of party affiliation, may vote for or against the ballot measures.

In addition to a sample ballot for each qualified political party, your voter information pamphlet contains:

➢ The address for your polling place (located on the back cover);
➢ The complete text of the 10 ballot measures, along with the Ballot Simplification Committee’s summary of each measure and the Controller’s financial analysis of each measure;
➢ Arguments in favor of and against each measure;
➢ An absentee ballot application.

The polls will be open on election day, Tuesday, March 2, from 7:00 a.m. until 8:00 p.m. The Department of Elections encourages you to review the back cover of this pamphlet for the correct address of your polling place. The address of your polling place can also be found on the Department’s website at www.sfgov.org/elections, under "polling place lookup."

If you have any questions about the election or voting, you can call the Department’s voter information phone bank at (415) 554-4375.

John Arntz
Director of Elections
The San Francisco Voter Information Pamphlet and Sample Ballot is scheduled to be mailed at the beginning of February. If you registered to vote or changed your registration after December 30, and before February 3, your Voter Information Pamphlet will be mailed after February 10.

If you do not receive your Voter Information Pamphlet in a timely manner, please notify your local Post Office.

The Ballot Simplification Committee prepares summaries (“The Way It Is Now,” “The Proposal,” “A Yes Vote Means,” and “A No Vote Means”) of measures placed on the ballot each election. The Committee also prepares a table of contents, an index of candidates and measures, a brief explanation of the ballot pamphlet, definitions of terms in the pamphlet, a summary of voters’ basic rights, and a statement as to the term, compensation and duties of each local elective office.
Dear San Francisco Voter:

The November 2, 2004 General Election will be a historic election for San Francisco because it will be the first time San Franciscans use “ranked-choice voting” to elect local officials. Voters amended the City Charter in March 2002 to require the use of ranked-choice voting, also called “instant run-off elections” to elect most local officials. This November, voters in seven of the City’s eleven districts – districts 1, 2, 3, 5, 7, 9 and 11 – will elect supervisors using this new voting method. Please turn to page 7 to view a district map if you are unsure if your district will have a contest for Supervisor.

The ballot card that lists candidates for Supervisor will look very different from the ballots San Francisco has used in the past and will have different voting instructions. Ballots for contests using ranked-choice voting will have three columns, side-by-side, and each column will have a complete list of the district candidates. The voter will be instructed to select a first-choice candidate in the first column, a second-choice candidate in the second column, and a third-choice candidate in the third column. For specific information about how to mark the ranked-choice ballot, please turn to page 10.

I recommend that voters familiarize themselves with the ranked-choice ballot in advance of the election, and share this information with other voters. I also encourage voters to attend one of the Department of Elections’ weekly presentations on ranked-choice voting. These presentations are conducted in English, Spanish, Cantonese and Mandarin, and are held at City Hall and in neighborhoods throughout San Francisco.

Ranked-choice voting does not affect contests for federal or State office, or ballot measures. For this reason, voters can expect that the portion of the ballot that lists these candidates and measures will be familiar – this portion of the ballot will have the same design and voting instructions that San Francisco has used since November 2000.

In addition to information about ranked-choice voting, this Voter Information Pamphlet includes a sample of the official ballot for this election, as well as information about candidates and ballot measures. The back cover lists the address of your polling place. Since we sometimes need to relocate polling places between elections, I recommend that each voter check the location of his or her polling place before election day.

For more information about the November 2, 2004 election and ranked-choice voting, please visit our website at www.sfgov.org/election or call the Department of Elections at 554-4375.

Respectfully,

John Arntz

Dear San Francisco Voter,

With the untimely passing of Mayor Ed Lee, voters will elect the City’s next Mayor during the June 5, 2018, Consolidated Statewide Direct Primary Election. We will again see the contest for Mayor on the ballot for the November 2019 election.

Also due to a vacancy, in this June election, voters who live in Supervisorial District 8 will choose their next representative on the Board of Supervisors and will again vote for candidates for this same office in the November 2018 election.

Multi-Card Ballots
Unsurprisingly, we will vote using a multi-card ballot, comprised of four cards. The ballot for the June 5 election will include federal, state, and local contests, as well as state and local measures, and one regional measure.

Ballot Worksheet
As for every election, this Voter Information Pamphlet includes a “Ballot Worksheet,” which provides space to write down your selections for each contest and measure before marking your ballot cards.

Online Voter Information Pamphlet
This Voter Information Pamphlet is also available in digital versions at sfelections.org in accessible HTML and open XML formats in English, Chinese, Spanish, and Filipino. The content is formatted for smart devices, which allows voters much flexibility to review the Pamphlet and consider their voting selections.

Early Voting at the City Hall Voting Center
Voting is available to all registered voters in City Hall during weekdays beginning Monday, May 7, 8 a.m.–5 p.m. and on the two weekends before Election Day, May 26–27 and June 2–3, 10 a.m.–4 p.m.

For weekend voting, enter City Hall from Grove Street or McAllister Street.

Vote-by-Mail Ballot Drop-off Stations:
The Department will continue to provide Ballot Drop-Off stations that will be located on the sidewalk in front of City Hall. However, the Civic Center will host a large event the weekend before Election Day, requiring some changes in the locations of the Drop-Off stations from past elections.

- Saturday–Sunday, June 2–3, 10 a.m.–4 p.m.
  Stations will be located on the sidewalks along both Grove Street and McAllister Street

- Monday, June 4, 8 a.m.–5 p.m.
  Stations will be located on the sidewalks along Grove Street and Goodlett Place (Polk St.)

- Tuesday, June 5, 7 a.m.–8 p.m.
  Stations will be located on the sidewalks along Grove Street and Goodlett Place (Polk St.)

Polls open on Election Day, Tuesday, June 5, at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m., throughout the City.

Finally, review both sides of all ballot cards, so no contest or measure is overlooked—more reason to utilize the Ballot Worksheet.

Respectfully,
John Arntz, Director
