RE: Juvenile Probation and Camps Funding Recommendations

The Juvenile Probation Department has completed its review and analysis of fifty-four (54) proposals submitted in response to the RFP (Request for Proposals) issued April 24, 2006.

The service areas solicited for program development and submission included:

- Detention-Based Enrichment Programs
- Girls Services
- Life Skills Development
- Education Support
- Employment
- Family Support

The total amount of all proposals submitted approached $8 million in pursuit of $1.5 million of available funds.

All proposals were evaluated from three (3) perspectives:

- Independent Panel Reviews
- Probation Division Directors' Review
- Executive Review

Each level of review considered every applicant's history, experience with JPD involved youth, their proposed project goals and objectives, their program design and budget, in the context of the needs of JPD youth requiring detention-based enrichment services, gender-specific programming, employment, education, life-skills development and family support services.

I recommend the proposals submitted by the following organizations for your approval so that the JPD can negotiate and develop a written grant agreement with each that includes a clearly defined scope of service that has a commensurate contractual value based upon service priority percentages for JPD youth, available funding, and the relationship of the proposed program to like services funded by other city contracts.

The organizations the Department recommends for your approval to pursue a written grant agreement are:
