The Mayor’s Office on Disability helps to investigate and resolve disability access or discrimination issues for the City and County of San Francisco’s Departments and their Contractors. Access issues usually fall into one of three categories. Please let us know which category best describes your issue:

- Architectural Access - Please check here if the access problem is architectural -- for example, a wheelchair ramp is needed, braille signage is missing, or accessible counters are too high for wheelchair users.

- Programmatic Access – Please check here if the access problem is programmatic – for example, you cannot get or maintain a City benefit or service because of a disability, or you asked for a reasonable modification of a policy, practice or procedure in order to obtain City benefits or services, but were denied one.

☐ Communication Access – Please check here if the access problem involves communication – for example, you need an interpreter, materials in alternative formats, or other auxiliary aids and services in order to have equal access to information and communications for a City benefit, service or activity.
