This is clearly on your watch. Do you have a duty to intervene?
Do you have a duty to report these racial epitaphs? Does any of this shame you to action?

Please send this to all Commissioners and post to the 30-Day Commission

FIRE HAMASAKI #2

Good Day Fearless Commissioners!

An incredible amount of information was sent in the hopes that one of you would do the right thing when presented with information that shows Hamasaki is not only a racist, ant-police zealot, but lacks the necessary temperament to hear cases on any type police discipline.

I will be relentless in my pursuit of making you read his vile comments and point out your failure to lead which is only hastening the descent in the level of trust officers have in the Commission. Officers as well as the public can also see that an individual's ideological bent is more important than integrity for all of you at this point. The attitude of indifference you are displaying is exactly why the San Francisco city government landed in the midst of this devastating corruption scandal. Corruption does not only mean quid pro quo or material benefits. Corruption can be subtle also.

Maybe you turn your head or look away. You defiantly do not correct the behavior. You believe you are not corrupt, but you take no stand because it is not popular or advantageous. It takes courage and leadership to look at a colleague and call him out for his unethical behavior. You talk about culture, yet look at the horrid cesspool that you have to wade through to protect the unrelenting march to neuter the department. The Commission culture is one of overt politics in order to cover-up the failures of progressive ineptitude in the areas of education, mental health, homelessness and individual accountability while propping up the fictitious notion that law enforcement is driven by racism.

Since we are putting so much stock in Dante King, please have him review Hamasaki's tweets and have him answer these questions.

1. Would an officer that shows absolute contempt for a group of people based solely on that group's common attributes be allowed to stay on in law enforcement?
2. Should an officer that retweets his like of a racist and misogynistic messages - twice, be allowed to work without any discipline or counseling?
3. Should an officer be allowed to tell a female executive that a delay in her work product is no different that a knee on the neck of a group?

Shall we begin? Again.

Until SFPD incentivizes good work and punishes those who harm the community, the culture will never change. This has been a sore spot for the Police Commission for years.

Light discipline for police misconduct is the norm in San Francisco - Missio...
One 45-day suspension was the most severe penalty paid by a San Francisco police officer over a two and a half year period and 349 cases of police

Hamasaki believes that to change a culture you need to punish transgressors. I applaud his stance and by extension, his belief that restorative justice and rehabilitation are nothing more than buzzwords covering up the failures of progressives and we need to lock people up. Hamasaki will not change - Punish him with removal!

The words we use matter.

Adnan Khan @akhan1437 · Nov 21

For those who can't stop using the term offender, when does one stop being an "offender" in your world?

Do words matter when they come from a small minded commissioner?
Resoundingly yes!

And to answer the question posed by his fellow traveler asking about the word "offender"...It depends. If you are a murderer, rapist, pedophile or terrorist - NEVER. The trauma scars that victims and their loved ones bare NEVER go away and neither should the Scarlet Letter on some criminals.

Let's review the words that Hamasaki uses in public. Does he say this to or around Commissioners Brookter, Cohen or Taylor? How about to Chief Scott or Director Henderson? What would be a good place to start for the Department to punish an officer for this language? Probably Termination. Lead by example for your colleague!

Read it and than ask yourselves if these words matter.

What if they the words show what you think of officers?

True.

Chad Loder @chadloder · Nov 13

I'd like to see some mainstream reporting on "militias" that focuses on how mind-numbingly stupid and cowardly these guys are.

I'm not saying they pose no threat but it takes 5 minutes talking to these rejects to realize you're dealing with folks who couldn't even become a cop.

Replying to @HamasakiLaw

Or just stop centering white males. I don't understand the persistent media obsession with the white male. The narwhal that is the disaffected Trump supporter.

Narwhals don't carry big guns and try to scare people at Wendy's. 🤔

What does Hamasaki think about law enforcement officers' intellectual capabilities? Apparently not much. He believes that militia members are inferior to him and officers are barely a step above these deplorables.

FIRE HAMASAKI #2

In the first volume of Fire Hamasaki, we all saw his arrogance attempting to cover his low intellectual capacity and insecurity. Below, he unwittingly acknowledges how dumb he is.

Why is Hamasaki dumber than dirt...because headlines define his thought process especially when it confirms his bias.

Yes! Quarantined like those stupid cops!

With no facts, I'll guess it was due to Hamasaki's Trumpian refusal to wear a mask! Stupid Spreader!

What do Peter Thiel and Hamasaki have in common? According to the Commission Idiot, they both use white nationalist language. Wonder who Hamasaki hangs out with though? We should check around some North Beach bars to find out.

BLACK FRIDAY AT THE CITADEL 🎄 : Not everyone turned to the internet to catch Black Friday sales this year. Instead, some shoppers flocked to their local malls including the Citadel Outlets in Commerce. By noon, shoppers struggled to even find a parking spot bit.ly/3mil0AU

Hanging out with white nationalists again? Maybe that is where he got his idea that punishment should be meted out to change behavior.

Maybe Hamasaki is turning over a new leaf and accountability for victimizing your community, the poor and vulnerable are just not acceptable.
