- The SB 823 Subcommittee will develop San Francisco's plan for young people who would have been sent to state facilities but, with the closure of the Division of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) and California's youth prisons, will now be placed in local settings closer to their families and communities. This is an important opportunity for San Francisco to create a plan for youth who commit serious offenses - including those youth who the court commits to a secure program. We want to make sure that this plan includes voices of community members most impacted by our juvenile justice system.
