[Lowering the jail visiting age to 16 and establishing an online inmate locator]

Resolution promoting family unity for youth with incarcerated parents and urging the lowering of the visiting age in San Francisco county jails to age 16 and the establishment of an online inmate locator tool

WHEREAS, 53% all U.S. inmates in 2007 were parents of one or more children under the age of 18;¹ and

WHEREAS, according to the Center for Youth Wellness, incarceration is one of the most adverse of childhood experiences; and

WHEREAS, according to the 2011 DCYF Community Needs Assessment, 17,993 children and youth were estimated to have had a parent who spent time in either county jail or state prison in 2010,² and this number does not include youth and children who had a parent that was incarcerated at any time during their childhood, and does not include transitional age youth, parental incarceration may affect an even greater number of San Francisco’s young people; and

WHEREAS, visitation is a mediating factor in the adverse effect of parental incarceration;³ and

WHEREAS, the supervision required for 16 and 17 year olds to visit their parent may present barriers to youth maintaining a relationship with their parent; and

WHEREAS, federal government permits persons 16 years age and older to visit inmates in federal prisons; and

WHEREAS, Sheriff Mirkarimi has already undertaken efforts to lower phone call prices for people incarcerated in San Francisco County jails to promote family unity; and

³ Joseph Murray, David P. Farrington; “Effects of Parental Imprisonment on Child Antisocial Behavior and Mental Health: A Systemic Review”; September 2009
WHEREAS, the Sheriff along with HSA, Community Works, and SFCIPP are already working to expand contact visits for children and youth under age seventeen; and

WHEREAS, many youth are already well served through the One Family visiting program, but established family visiting programs cannot serve all youth who may wish to schedule visits with their parents; and

WHEREAS, administrative and financial barriers to parental visitation were among the top issues and concerns voiced by youth with incarcerated parents, formerly incarcerated people, and service providers during a youth participatory action research effort undertaken by San Francisco Project WHAT, a leadership program of youth with incarcerated parents, in 2013-2015; and

WHEREAS, call-in requests to locate a parent or loved one often take very long time; and

WHEREAS, county jails are a first point of contact in the criminal justice system, and may be sites where parents are detained before their children have otherwise learned of a parent’s arrest or incarceration; and

WHEREAS, federal prisons, California state prisons, and several county jail systems including Sacramento Alameda, and San Bernardino already have their online inmate locators; and

WHEREAS, there are now more people being detained at county level due to realignment; and

WHEREAS, the changes due to realignment are more cause to have an inmate locator and to increase our efforts to support children in maintaining strong bonds with their parents during incarceration; now therefore be it

RESOLVED, that the San Francisco Youth Commission commends the Sheriff Department’s self-evident commitment to maintaining and promoting relationships between youth and their incarcerated parents; and be it further

RESOLVED, that the San Francisco Youth Commission urges the Sherriff’s Department to lower the visiting age for regular visits in SF county jails to 16 years old; and be it further

Project WHAT! Research Findings with SF Solutions, February 2015
RESOLVED, that such a change to the visiting policy should not preclude youth 16 and 17 years old from also participating in contact visits through existing established visiting programs; and be it further

RESOLVED, that the San Francisco Youth Commission urges that such a visiting policy should include provisions for verifying the relationship of a child and parent, as well as the identity of the youth visitor in a way that presents as few barriers to regular visitation as possible; and be it finally

RESOLVED, the San Francisco Youth Commission urges the Sherriff’s Department to create an accessible online inmate locator that is searchable by first and last name, and without an inmate ID number.
