Resolution urging the Mayor and Board of Supervisors to collaborate with the San Francisco Unified School District to increasing funding for wellness programs, resources, outreach, and education in San Francisco public schools, including more professional development for school staff on wellness practices and frameworks such as healing-centered care, and youth-anchored Peer-to-Peer Counseling

WHEREAS, The San Francisco Wellness Initiative was launched to improve the health and well-being of all San Francisco Unified School District (SFUSD) students; and,

WHEREAS, Wellness centers were implemented in SFUSD schools to provide mental and physical health care services available to all SFUSD students, therefore enhancing students' feelings of safety and belonging; and,

WHEREAS, In the 2006-2007 Youth Commission Budget and Policy Priorities Report, the Youth Commission advocated for the expansion and funding of SFUSD wellness centers to the city's middle and high schools, as well as the preservation of mental health programs and the use of add-backs to hire more wellness center staff in the 2008-2009 and 2009-2010 Youth Commission Budget and Policy Priorities Reports; and,

WHEREAS, A 2020 KidsData survey found that 30.2% of Black SFUSD students in grades 7, 9, and 11 experienced depression-related feelings, along with 29.7% of Hispanic/Latino students, and 22.4% of Asian students; and,
WHEREAS, These disparities only increased with the COVID-19 pandemic in 2020; and,

WHEREAS, Pandemic school closures deprived students from seeing classmates, and being a part of organizations, teams, and programs which offered them joy and purpose; and,

WHEREAS, Following the pandemic, SFUSD publicly committed to supporting students' mental health and wellness, as well as increasing access to health and wellness services for middle school students; and,

WHEREAS, The Youth Commission recognizes the need for a larger investment in mental health services coming out of the pandemic; and,

WHEREAS, Many SFUSD students presently do not have access to wellness centers for a variety of reasons, including a lack of diverse representation and a disconnect between services and students, as students do not feel comfortable accessing the wellness centers; and

WHEREAS, A 2020 survey published by K12 Dive reports that Black students are the least likely to report having a trusted adult at school and the most likely to claim that their school mental health professional cannot understand their situation due to racial or ethnic differences; and,

WHEREAS, The Chinese Progressive Association’s 2017 survey (of nearly 1000 SFUSD students) found that the SFUSD wellness centers currently do not meet the cultural and linguistic needs of its students and families; and,

WHEREAS, According to the Chinese Progressive Association’s 2017 survey, students often do not want their parents to know they are meeting with a school counselor, and are concerned that school staff will treat them differently or provide them with fewer opportunities at school; and,

WHEREAS, The Chinese Progressive Association’s 2017 survey showed that 36% of lesbian and gay students reported that concerns about family and friends finding out about their mental health issues barred them from accessing the wellness centers; and,

WHEREAS, Peer-to-peer counseling is a form of support that involves trained students providing counseling and assistance to their peers within the school community; and,

WHEREAS, Peer-to-peer counseling programs have shown to be effective in promoting mental health, reducing stigma, and providing accessible support to students facing various challenges; and,

WHEREAS, Implementing youth-anchored peer-to-peer counseling in San Francisco public schools can enhance the mental health support available to students, particularly those who may feel more comfortable seeking help from their peers; and,

WHEREAS, Peer-to-peer counseling programs can foster a sense of connection, empathy, and understanding among students, leading to a more inclusive and supportive school environment; and,

WHEREAS, Healing-centered care is an essential framework that prioritizes the holistic well-being of individuals, acknowledging their experiences and trauma, and fostering resilience and growth through culturally competent and community-oriented approaches; and,
WHEREAS, Healing-centered care emphasizes the importance of creating safe and supportive spaces for students, promoting emotional and mental well-being, and addressing systemic inequities that impact the health of marginalized communities; and,

WHEREAS, Integrating healing-centered care into wellness programs in San Francisco public schools can lead to more effective and culturally responsive mental health support for students, particularly those from underserved and diverse backgrounds; and,

WHEREAS, there is a significant issue of staff turnover at San Francisco Public schools, with positions being underpaid and overworked, negatively impacting the stability and continuity of wellness programs and services provided to SFUSD students; and,

WHEREAS, retaining experienced and qualified staff is crucial for the effective implementation and long-term success of wellness centers in SFUSD schools; and,

WHEREAS, addressing the issue of underpaid and overworked positions is essential for creating a healthier and more supportive environment for both staff and students; and,

WHEREAS, investing in staff well-being and providing competitive compensation will attract and retain dedicated professionals committed to supporting the mental and physical health needs of SFUSD students and therefore be it
